Some homes draw you straight inside. This one may take a little longer.
There is a pool to wander around, palms overhead and a shaded garden pergola that makes a fairly convincing argument for sitting down before you have even reached the front door.
Set on approximately 14,041 m² of land in La Alberca, Pedreguer, this five-bedroom country home has established gardens, countryside and mountain views, and plenty of space to enjoy life outside. Lawns, mature trees and Mediterranean planting surround the house and private swimming pool. The covered terrace beside the house is made for meals overlooking the garden, while the separate pergola offers another lovely gathering place. Lunch could become dinner...(Ask for More Details!)
